Seattle and the Future

*W*E ALL LOVE Seattle and her glorious past; we expect great things in the future. Her climate, her hills and valleys, and her people appeal to us.

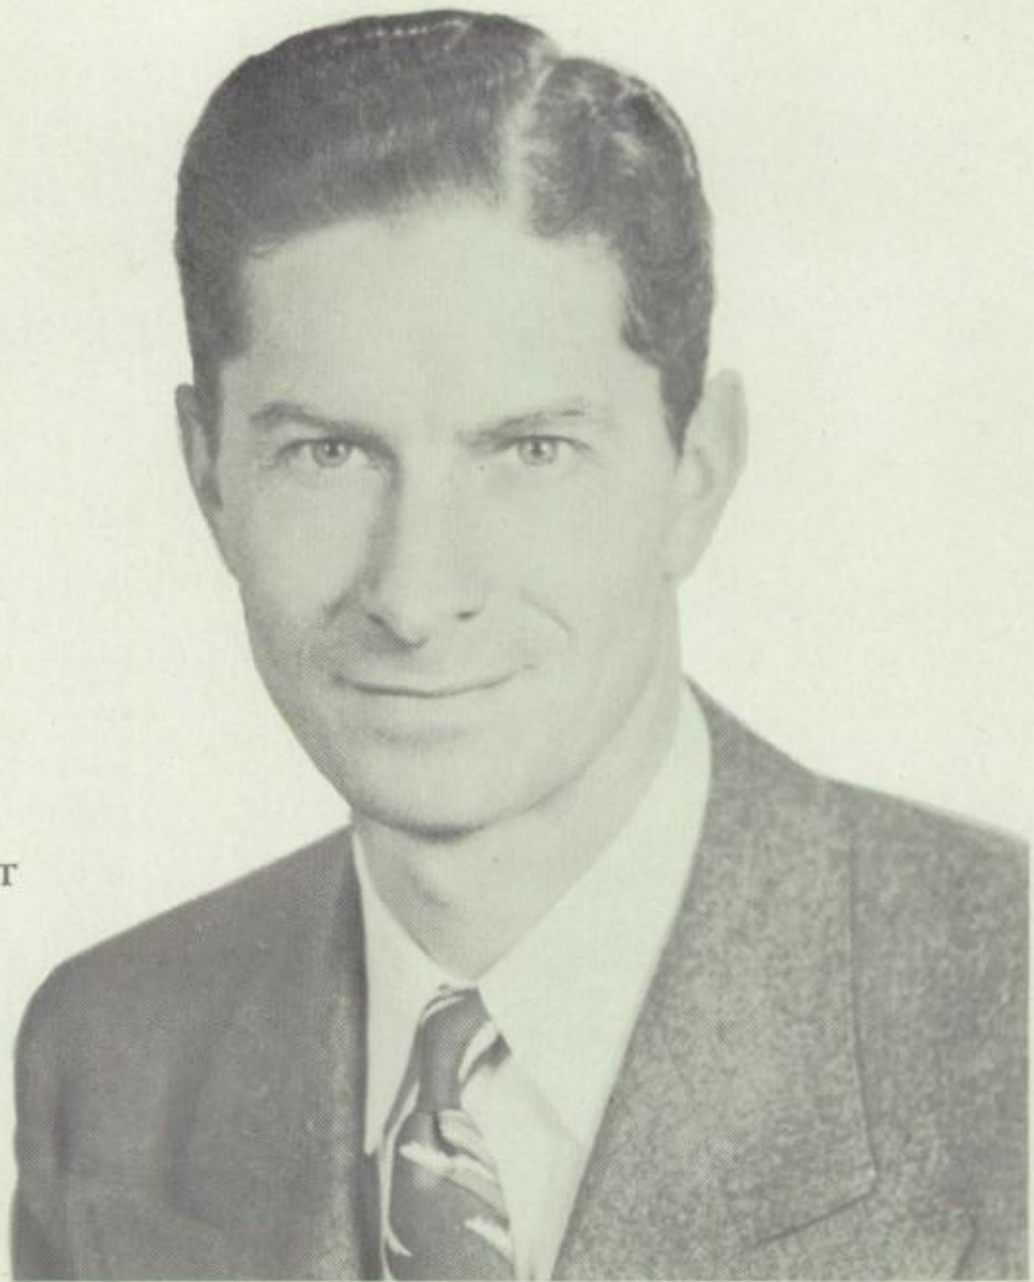

Because Seattle is situated in the fertile Pacific trough, farming is sure to be successful. Because we have quantities of minerals, coal, water power, electricity, and a mild climate, we have the assurance of abundant industry. Because we are planning wisely, our fishing and lumbering will continue productive.

Here at Franklin we have a larger vision than just a physical world. We desire for Seattle and the Northwest an enlightened culture; the continued growth of our universities and colleges; greater development of the Drama, Music, Art and Science; the building of a race of men and women who love decency and unselfishness and will work and sacrifice for the true interpretation of democracy. Strive to make Seattle such a place for our children's children.

WALTER J. RESEBURG

FREDERICK E. BREIT
Vice-Principal

TWO YEARS from now we shall be privileged to take part in the centennial celebration of the founding of our great city, Seattle. As a part of the celebration we shall be literally "first nighters" in reviewing the many physical changes of the past one hundred years. While these changes in themselves will be impressive, it is important that we do not measure progress only in terms of bigger and better buildings and an ever expanding economy. Underlying all of this visual progress is the hard work, faith in the other fellow, a willingness to work together and a determined will to succeed; these are the components of the real spirit of Seattle. Can we meet the challenge of an ever expanding spirit of Seattle?

We, at Franklin, feel that our young people possess the necessary potentialities to meet this challenge. Through our many-sided program of education we hope to play a part in developing citizens who will not only carry on, but also be instrumental in building a spirit so basically sound that we can successfully meet the unpredictable problems of the future.

FREDERICK E. BREIT

The Spirit of Seattle

*P*ROUDLY CROWNING seven hills like the fabulous city of Rome, and encircled by majestic mountains as was Athens of the golden era, rises the young city . . . Seattle.

Nature has blessed her environs with treasures unexcelled. The pristine mountains lure the mountaineer, the hunter, and the artist. The crystalline slopes of snow-clad hills exhilarate the winter sportsman. Serene Puget Sound entices the fisherman and the marine explorer. Blue lakes fill days with adventure and thrill as sailboats race with the wind.

This gracious Queen city of the Northwest is strategically placed. To the North lie Canada and the rich pioneer land of Alaska; across the Pacific, fascinating Asia . . . all offering great potential markets for thriving world trade. To the South lie Mexico and South America with their intriguing old-world cultures.

Into her World Port ply great ships bringing the fragrance and color of far places—hardwood from Honduras, curry and spices from India, tea, camphor, and pearls from the Orient. Out through her portals pass goods from the forest, fields, fisheries, and factories of the West. Trade—the passport to international understanding—is Seattle's mighty contribution toward World Peace.

NOTE: The first two above are seniors;
the others are freshmen.

*I*t is the season of sport

and the realization of youthful strength.

The air is mellowed by the smell of dry leaves.

It is Autumn

in the City of Seven Hills.

A large collage of black and white photographs depicting various school sports and activities. The central image shows a football game with players in action. Other photos include basketball games, a band performing, a cheerleader, and various other sports scenes. The collage is arranged in a grid-like fashion with overlapping images.

*W*E LIKE to watch football. We like to watch football because we like to support our team. We like to be good sports. When someone on the other team is injured we cheer for him, because you don't have to play a sport . . . to be a good one. When our team lost, which was a little too often, we still came and the boys fought. When the rest of the teams went forward and ours went backward we came and they fought. When it rained they kept playing and we kept coming and got wet. And when victory came, rain came with it. But we welcomed it. If our team didn't do so well this year we are proud—proud of our boys, our sportsmanship, and the sun (when it comes to Seattle).

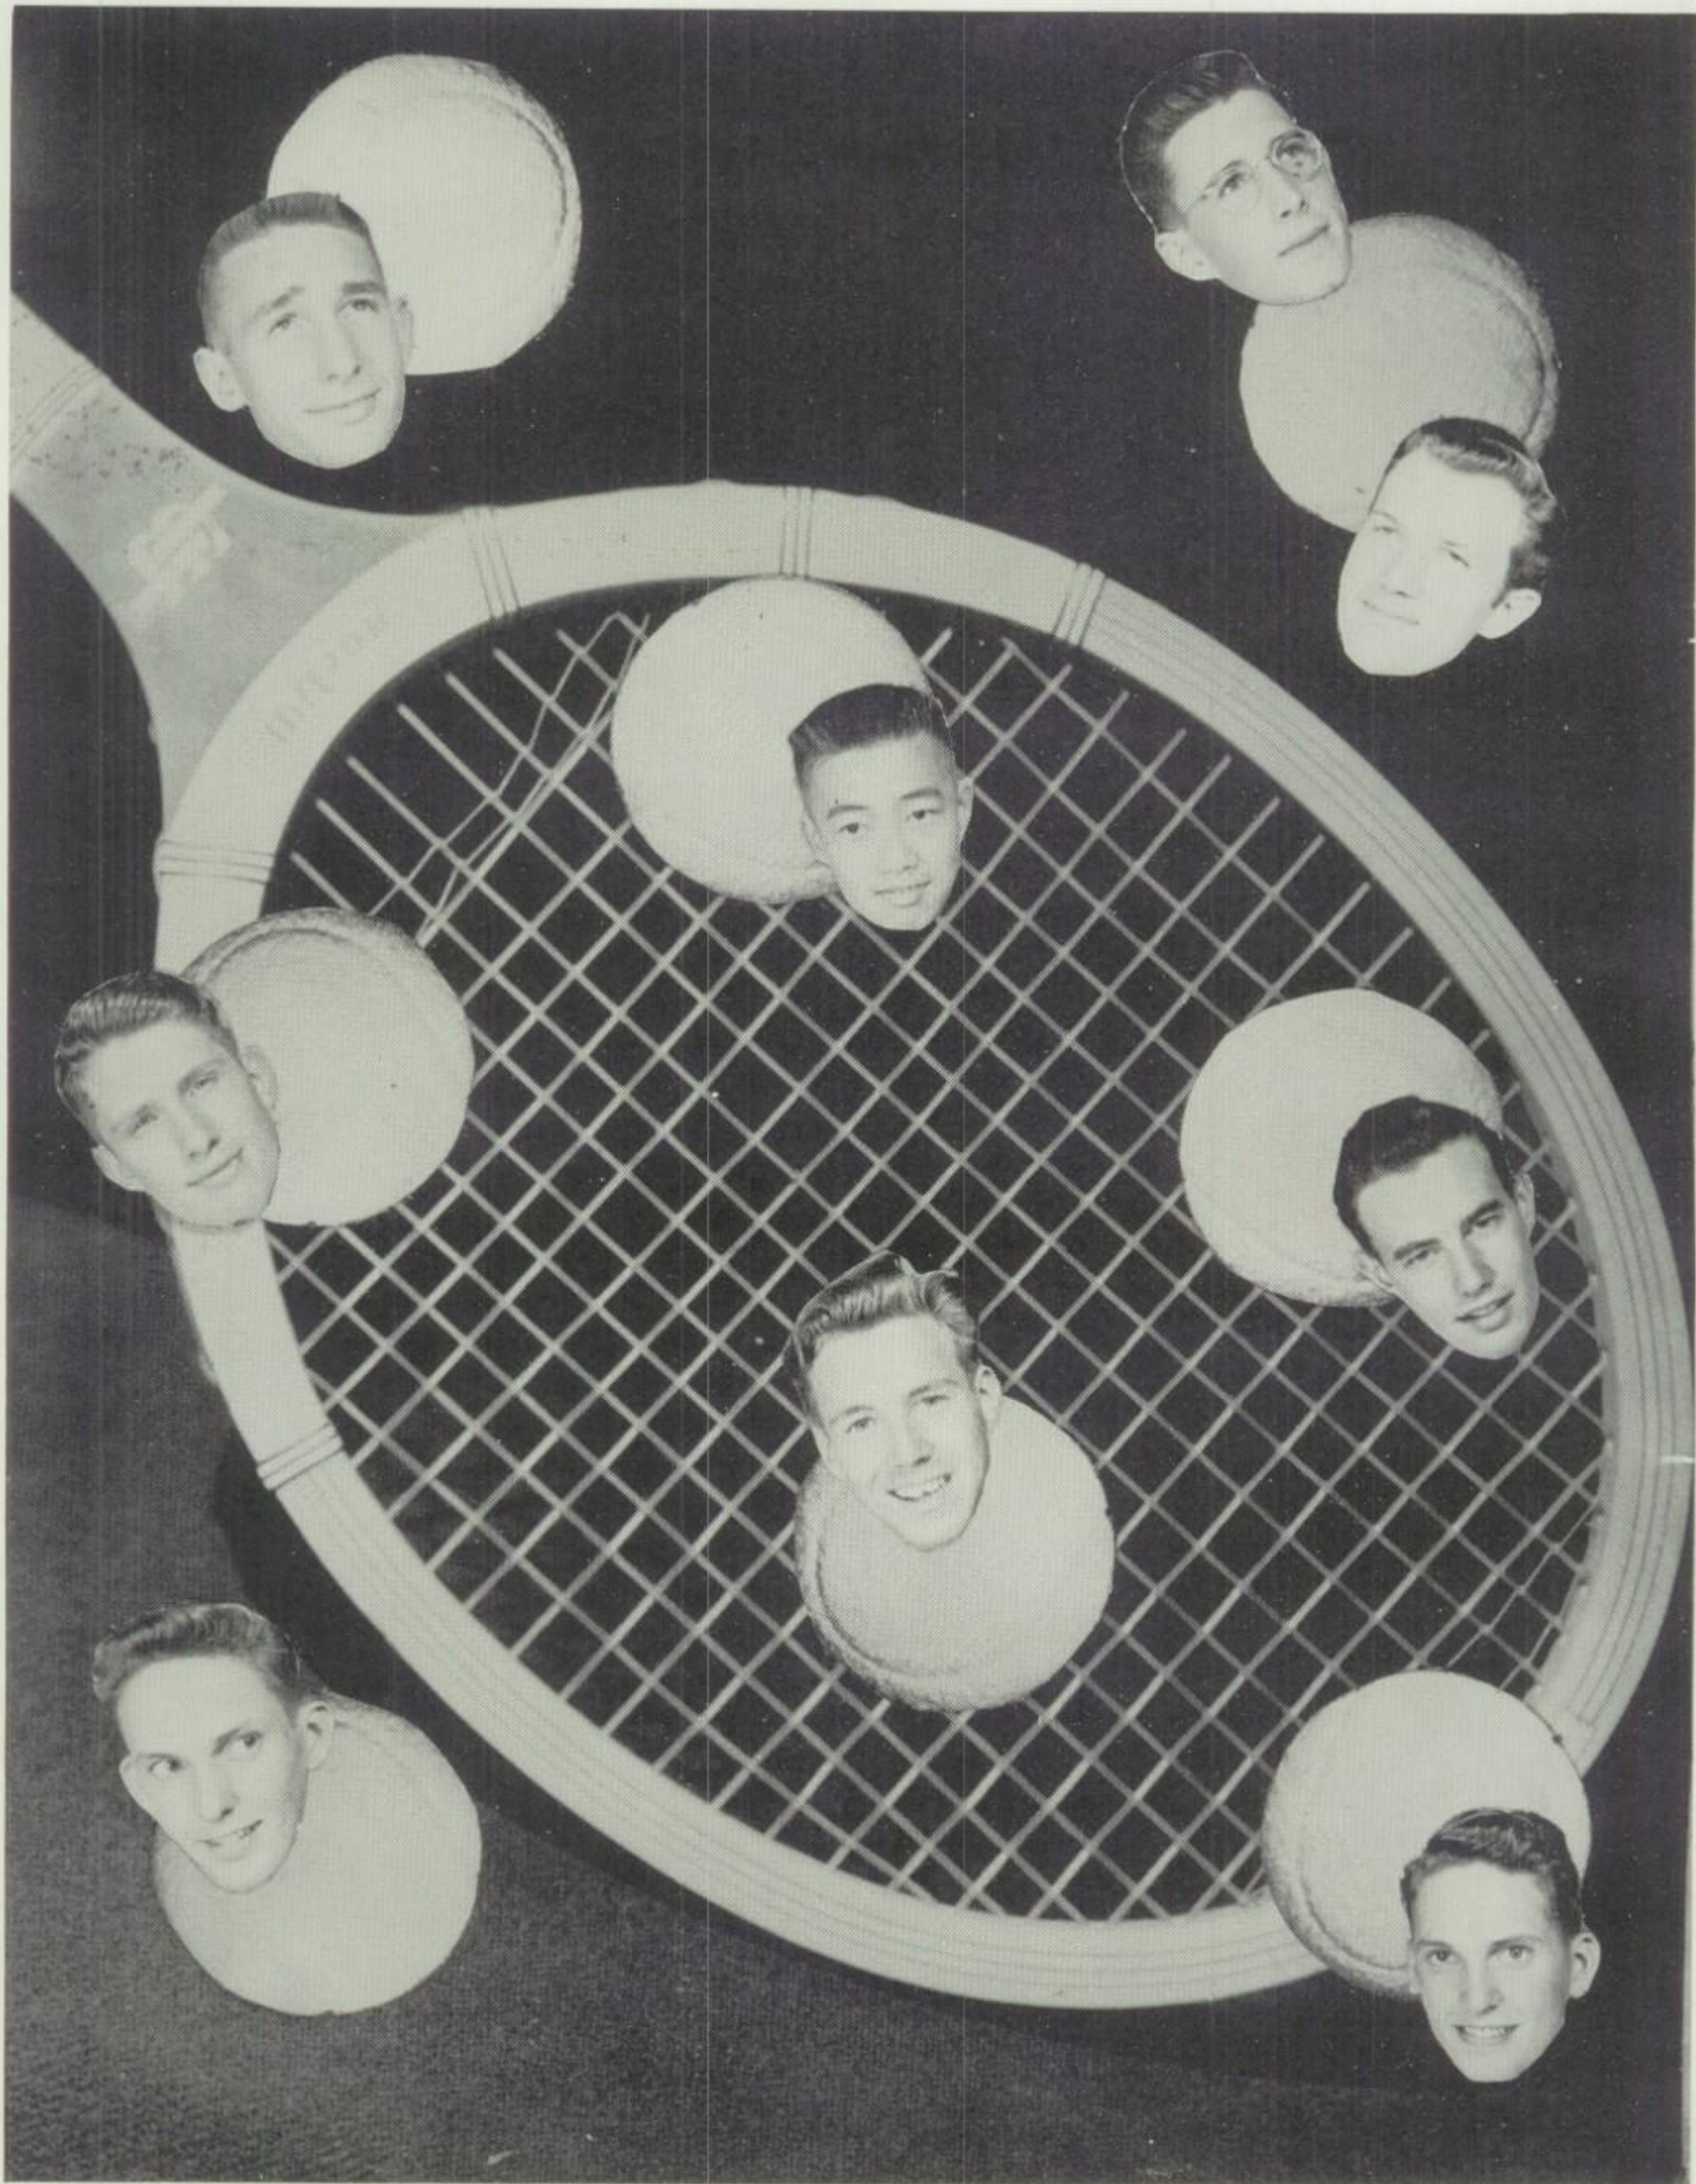

We are the same with other sports. If our basketball team didn't do so well this year, which it didn't, we say "wait till next year." And so on down the line with Baseball, and Track, and the minor sports—Skiing, Tennis, Golf, and Swimming. And then when Spring Sports draw to a close we once again look forward to the next football season and, come to think of it, summer vacation.

*O*n the shores of the sound drift wood lies in gnarled abstractions.
The mountains stand silent
yet their presence fills the air
with sounds too vast to be heard,
A lingering echo of the roar that shook the universe as they raised their shoulders from the ocean.

This is a large, dense collage of black and white photographs, likely from a mid-20th-century yearbook. The photos are arranged in a non-linear, overlapping fashion, creating a sense of a busy, multifaceted school life. The images depict various activities: students in costumes performing on stage, groups of students dancing, individuals playing musical instruments like violins and pianos, and large groups of students posing for formal portraits or candid shots. The clothing and hairstyles are characteristic of the 1940s. The collage captures a wide range of school events, from formal dances and theatrical productions to more casual social gatherings and group photos. The overall composition is vibrant and detailed, providing a comprehensive visual record of the school's activities during that period.

Franklin Clubs

*W*E LIKE to say that all is not work at Franklin. Even when ten week tests are coming we like to say all is not classwork. For here at Franklin we have clubs. They let us have them so we cannot say all is classwork. We don't say all of it is; we just say most of it.

There are boys' clubs and girls' clubs, activity clubs and service clubs. Everything is a club—big clubs, like the popular Ski Club, and smaller ones like the Anglers' Club. There are Skating Clubs and Language Clubs. Everywhere you turn there are clubs—Drama Clubs, Science Clubs, Teen Age Clubs. We like to eat lunch, so there is a lunchroom. When there is a lunchroom there are lunchroom helpers. We don't call it a lunchroom club, but you get the idea. There are library helpers, study hall helpers, stage crew, gym clerks, and if we want movies, a movie club to run them. There are a Lettermen's Club, a Boys' Club, a Girls' Club, and three Hi-Ys.

If you do not belong to a club, and think that all is classwork, it isn't very hard to get into one, namely Mr. Breit's Club. Need I say more?

*The Chinook blows warm and soft;
It caresses the mountains.
The gulls drift lazily on its gentle breath
and cry a melancholy incantation.
Thin white roots stretch and reach out into the black loam.
The green things of earth smile with multi-colored lips;
On the slopes of the seven hilled city
The Crocus, Daffodil, Rose, Rhododendron, and Chrysanthemum march in endless procession.
The Homes proudly display the fertility of the earth—
Man reaching into the soil praises nature

Acknowledgments

ONLY THOSE who have worked on the Tolo Annual Staff can appreciate the helpfulness and generosity of the two firms without whose help this yearbook would not have materialized—the Ralston Studio and the Acme Press. They are more than business associates; they are true and loyal friends of Franklin High School, who have served the school for many years. We are especially indebted to Ann Stone, Frank McCaffrey, Phyllis Heady and Al Jensen; but we want to express our appreciation to all the helpers at both firms who have assisted with the work upon this book.
